studioacquisitions

private sourcing · brief intake

the more specific this is, the better the acquisition. write as if you're describing the piece to someone with taste who has never met you. if in doubt, say what it isn't.

THE CLIENT

name

preferred pronouns

email

phone

city / location

how you found me

THE BRIEF

what am i finding for you?

object, garment, artwork, watch, chair — describe the thing itself, not just the category.

tier — which describes your brief?

select one. i'll confirm or adjust in my response.

- ☐ specific find — i know the exact item (model, size, era, reference).
- ☐ brief-based sourcing — i have constraints; in-person hunt likely.
- ☐ curated acquisition — i want an outcome; you choose the piece.
- ☐ collection building — multiple pieces over time.
- ☐ spatial sourcing — a room or property.

references

links, screenshots, photos of similar pieces, a pinterest board — anything that makes the target visible.

THE CONSTRAINTS

budget ceiling (item)

the most you'll pay for the piece itself, excluding fees.

deadline

is this for a date? gift? event?

size / measurements

exact where possible. approximate is fine if unknown.

condition tolerance

mint only? vintage wear ok? can it need restoration?

dealbreakers

what would make you reject the piece on sight? specific finishes, materials, color, provenance, era, sellers, etc.

anything else i should know?

the reason behind the brief, past attempts that failed, sellers you've already tried, room it lives in, person it's for.

AGREEMENT

- ☐ i understand the retainer is non-refundable and covers up to 8 hours of active search.
- ☐ i understand i pay for the cost of the item separately; the retainer and success fee cover the search and delivery, not the object.
- ☐ i understand that if the brief cannot be filled within 8 hours, i can pivot (+6 hrs at no charge), extend at $40/hr, or close with the retainer kept.
- ☐ i understand every acquisition is sent to me for approval before purchase, and once approved, the sale is final.

signature

date

contactme@studioacquisitions.studio studioacquisitions.studio return this form to open a brief. i confirm scope + tier within 48 hours.